The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, May 25. 1714.

From the Paris Letter, dated May 30.

Paris, May 30.

WE have Advice from Cadix of the 14th of this Month, that 12 French Ships had passed by for the Levant, under the Convoy of two Men of War. The Week before, the Admiral of Sally carrying 60 Guns and 200 Men, being a cruising in the Streights with divers Corsairs, to intercept the Succours which might be sent to Ceuta, was attacked by the King's Men of War and Frigates, which after a hard Fight boarded and took him, with another Ship of 40 Guns, the rest escaping much shattered. We have an Account from the Camp before Barcelona of the 6th Instant, that the 30th of last Month 200 Rebels having in the Night found Means to approach our Artillery with Design to destroy it, were discovered and charged so vigorously by two Battallions of the Army, that they were all killed or taken; and the Prisoners to the Number of 15 were sent in again, after they had been shewn the Preparations made for the Siege; and Defectors since reported, that the Account they had given of those Preparations, had not a little contributed to the Division and Consternation there. On the 5th M. Orry had a long Conference with a Deputy from the Town, to whom he declared he had full Power from the King to grant a general Amnesty to the Catalonian Rebels, provided they would implore the King's Clemency; otherwise they were to expect nothing but a rigorous Chastisement: The Deputy answered, that he would acquaint the Magistrates with what he had said, and let him know their Mind upon it in 7 or 8 Days. If we may believe some later Advices, the Answer of the Barceloners is, that they know not Monsieur Orry, and that when the King will send another Officer to them, they will talk of an Accomodation with him. They write from Madrid the 14th, that the 13th the News came thither of the Death of the Duke of Berry, whose Loss affected the King very much: That according to some Letters from the Camp before Barcelona, Men had been set to work on a Battery of 14 Mortars since the Arrival of M. Orry: That Signior Bracamonte had a second time defeated the Rebels in the Plain of Vich; and that Brigadier Don Joseph Solis with a Detachment of the Garrison of Tarragona and two Cannon, had likewise routed a Body of Rebels who had fortified themselves in a Passage near Villafranca. They write from Nancy the 22d, that the Electoral Prince of Saxony has been some time at the Court of the Elector Palatine, and that some important but yet secret Business is negotiating for him. The 27th the Dutch Ambassadors made their publick Entry here, with a very magnificent Train and Equipage: The fine Coach which the King has newly caused to be made to serve on such Occasions, valued at 100000 Livres, was first seen on this.
